Tito Links U. S. To Hitler Plot

BELGRADE, June 10 (AP)—Marshal Tito's Yugoslav government charged at the opening of Gen. Draja Mihailovic's treason trial today that American officers sat in on a conference between the former Chetnik leader and the German commander in Yugoslavia. The government indictment was read at the opening of the trial of the man who was left behind by former King Peter's government for the announced purpose of waging underground war against the Germans. It also charged that Mihailovic

Part of Stolen Gems May Still Be in Germany

FRANKFURT, June 10 (AP)—U. S. Army investigators, working closely with Washington, explored today the possibility a small number of the gems still uncovered in the theft of $1,500,000 worth of the Hesse jewels from Kronberg Castle might still be hidden in Germany.

Criminal investigation agents refused to reveal whether there were any developments arising out of the arrest of Maj. David F. Watson, 36, Burlingame, Cal., who was arrested here Friday, declaring they were operating under War Department instructions.

But U. S. Army headquarters officers said Watson had made a long statement to criminal agents and the possibility that some gems might "be hidden in Germany is not being overlooked."

Watson had worked at U. S. headquarters with Col. J. W. Durant, arrested in Chicago with his WAC captain wife, the former Kathleen Nash, in connection with the removal of the precious heirlooms of Countess von Hessen, 74, granddaughter of Queen Victoria of England, from Kronberg Castle, near here.

Until a couple of months ago, Watson was Durant's assistant in the personnel division of headquarters. They worked in adjoining offices of the huge I. G. Farben building in Frankfurt.

Lost Man, 83, Guides Rescuers

EAST HADDAM, Conn., June 10 (AP)—James Blair of Hartford, 83-years-old, lost in the woods here for four hours, rolled down the bank of a ravine 70 feet deep, but suffered only scratches on his forehead.

State Police and civilian volunteers searched for him from 7 p. m. to 11 p. m. last night when he was discovered sitting on a log near the Connecticut River bank.

Blair himself directed rescuers to his side by shouting was sent word by British officers in Cairo to "liquidate Communists as soon as possible."

The voluminous bill of particulars, with detailed charges of collaboration and war crimes against Mihailovic, said the British sent instructions to the King Peter's supposed resistance leader in 1944 by two officers who attended the King's marriage to Princess Alexandra of Greece.

In the summer of 1944, the indictment continued, "the American Colonel McDowell, chief of the American Military Mission to Mihailovic's headquarters, arrived at the airfield in Pranjina. As soon as he met Mihailovic he told him 'We Americans are not interested in your fight with Germany. They must be put out of Yugoslavia by action of the Allies.' It is up to you to remain among the people. . . . America is helping exclusively you and your movement in Yugoslavia."

In August, 1944, the indictment said, McDowell "took part" in a meeting at the village of Focsi between Mihailovic and the chief of the administrative staff of the German military commander in Serbia, Neubacher. McDowell also participated in a later meeting in September, between Mihailovic and Neubacher's deputy, Sterker, near Pranjina, it was charged.

(Hans Neubacher previously has been listed as German delegate general and economic expert to Yugoslavia and the Balkans. He has not been listed as a military commander.)

The indictment declared that in 1943, when the Axis launched its fourth major offensive against Tito's Partisans, Mihailovic personally and through Maj. Ostojic ordered all Chetnik units to take part in the operations "aimed at destruction of the forces of National Liberation (Tito's Partisans)."

"At that time the British colonel, Bailey, attached to Mihailovic's supreme command and fully acquainted with the plan and development of operations carried out by Mihailovic, said the Allies were preparing an invasion for the spring of 1943 on the Adriatic coast and that it was 'necessary to liquidate the Communists in order to have a clean hinterland which would enable his forces to take up a position unhindered on the Dalmatian coast.'"

The floodlit court room, an auditorium in an infantry school in a Belgrade suburb, was packed with 1100 spectators, including about 100 foreign and Yugoslav journalists and newspaper photographers.

Several spectators in the closely guarded room started to shout imprecations as Mihailovic and the other defendants in civilian garb strolled in with the military guards. The court president, Mihailo Djordjevic, squelched the demonstration.

The defendants sat on hard, straight benches facing a high, green-draped bench occupied by three military judges. Court President Djordjevic, who is the president of Serbia's supreme court, opened the proceedings with the proclamation, "Today begins the trial of the accused Draja Mihailovic."

New 20-Year-Old King Of Siam Born in Boston

BANGKOK, June 10 (AP)—Prince Phumiphon Aduldet, 18, was named King of Siam today while this shocked nation mourned the death of his brother, the 20-year-old King Ananda Mahidol, who was found in the royal palace yesterday with a bullet wound between the eyes.

King's Affair With Girl Not Serious

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, June 10—A close friend of Marilene Ferrari, 21, Swiss girl with whom the late King Ananda Mahidol of Siam was reported to have been in love, said today the friendship "was not a serious affair" and that Marilene "knew it could not last."

Marilene, daughter of a Lausanne clergyman, is black-haired. She frequently appeared with other male escorts during her friendship with the late king.

She and young Ananda studied law at the same university and frequently were seen driving to classes together.

The new king, who will become ruler of more than 200,000 square miles and 18,000,000 subjects, was unanimously selected by an extraordinary session of the legislature, meeting 12 hours after his brother's death.

The Siamese police director general told the Legislature that Ananda's death was accidental.

Phumiphon Aduldet, the almost constant companion of his older brother, was born in Boston, Mass., while his father, the late Prince Mahidol of Songkhla, was studying at Harvard. Phumiphon Aduldet and Ananda attended school together in Switzerland.

A three-member council of regency was named by the legislature to advise the new monarch. Pridi Phanomyong, reappointed premier only three days ago, was expected to be retained in that post.

Only sketchy details were disclosed on the shooting of King Ananda, a bespectacled, diffident youth often described as a reluctant monarch, who had become extremely popular since his return from Switzerland last December.

Ananda's retinue had been worried about the possibility of his assassination while he was studying in Switzerland. Paul Rey, director of the New Swiss School, where the young king studied, said in Bern. Asked about reports that the king was depressed because he was unable to marry a girl fellow student, Rey said Ananda has gone with one or two girls but had not had a serious romance.

(Cleon Seraidaris, Ananda's former Greek teacher and secretary in Switzerland, said the king had a flirtation in Lausanne, but it was not a serious affair. Seraidaris said although the monarch told him he was aware of the impossibility of marrying the girl, he did not believe Ananda had committed suicide. Before leaving the monarch made a testament leaving his present and future fortune to his mother, the teacher said.)

The young ruler had been ill for two days and arose at 6 a. m. yesterday to take some medicine. Nothing was known of his actions after that time, official sources said, and his body was discovered several hours later in the Barompin palace by a servant.

Ananda was born in Germany Sept. 20, 1925, and first came to Siam at the age of 2. He went to Switzerland in 1933, receiving most of his education in Bern and Lausanne. He was proclaimed king March 2, 1935, upon the abdication of his uncle, King Prajadipok, who died in 1941.

Ananda spent little time in his own land, residing in Switzerland for the most of the last 12 years, except for a brief visit here in 1938.

Ananda, more Western than Eastern in his tastes, enjoyed playing a saxophone and driving a U. S. jeep about the palace grounds.

Brief-Case Caller Slays Hub Executive

William A. Whitcomb, 73, of Dedham, multi-millionaire head of the Great Northern Paper Co., was shot and killed today by a well-dressed stranger, who gained access to his Devonshire st. office by posing as a Treasury Department official. After Whitcomb slumped to the floor beside his desk, the killer apparently stood coolly beside him, broke open his gun and dumped five .32-caliber shells, one of them unexploded, on the slain man's desk.

The slayer then walked calmly from Whitcomb's private office, the gun still gripped in his right hand, his left hand grasping the briefcase. As he sauntered to the front door of the suite of offices, he stuffed the gun in his coat pocket and walked into the corridor.

Here Is Killer's Description

Following is the description of the slayer of William A. Whitcomb, president of the Great Northern Paper Co., in the Boston Safe Deposit & Trust Co. building, Devonshire st., as furnished to police and broadcast over radio and teletype systems:

"Man of stocky build, about 45, 5 ft. 9 in., graying hair. Wearing blue-gray suit with pencil stripe, Panama hat, carrying brief case."

Police Radio Lags in Sounding Murder Alarm

Boston's police radio and teletype system scored a complete zero in the William A. Whitcomb slaying in a Devonshire st. office building today, as up to 1:30 p.m., three hours after the shooting, no official alarm had stated a murder had been committed.

The first message, at 10:40 a.m., merely said a man was "wanted by Division 2 for a shooting." It gave a sketchy description, failing to mention whether the victim was man or woman, dead or alive.

Only message to follow was one at 11:50, a confidential request for police to seek a certain man in local hotels. Reason why he was wanted was not given and the entire police department still had not been officially notified a murder had taken place.

As far as police records were concerned, the sole designation of the slaying as a murder was an entry in the journal of the detective bureau at police headquarters at 10:50 a.m.

At that time Lt. Patrick J. O'Reilly of the traffic division made a telephone report of a "murder" in the Boston State Deposit & Trust Co. building and requested homicide squad detectives be sent there.

Preliminary examination by Medical Examiner William J. Brickley before the body was removed to Northern Mortuary for autopsy showed Whitcomb had been shot twice in the body and that a third slug had glanced off his head into the wall. The fourth shot was wild, with the slug also being imbedded in the wall.

Police found a number of well-defined fingerprints on the desk top and on the door of Whitcomb's office but could not determine immediately whether any were those of the slayer.

Another excellent print was on an unsigned contract, found on the top of Whitcomb's desk, a paper that gave police a possible lead in their hunt for the slayer.

Lt. Harold Walkins of the homicide squad said the contract was for engaging a nationally known paper engineer.

Officials and employees of the company said the killer was not the well-known engineer whose name appeared on the contract and police sought to locate him in the hope he might have some information which would identify the slayer.

Officers checked at Boston hotels to learn if the engineer, a New York man, was registered here. They suggested that the killing might have been done by a rival for the $25,000 position.

Otherwise, they were at a loss for a motive. Whitcomb's desk was undisturbed and he had not been robbed.

Business friends described him as "meticulous and able in all his business dealings, extremely violent in his convictions and unyielding in his business views."

After the killing, the stranger walked calmly and without haste from Whitcomb's office and sauntered down the corridor to the elevators.

However, Lawrence O'Connor, employed in an adjoining office, said the man did not take an elevator but started to walk down the stairs.

Questioned by police, none of the building's elevator operators could recall taking any passengers answering the description of the killer to the main floor, indicating he had walked all the way downstairs.

Three exits were available and the killer apparently made his way through one of them and mingled with passersby in Devonshire, Franklin or Arch sts.

Lawrence O'Connor, who has an eighth floor office a few doors from where William A. Whitcomb was slain today, told police he went out in the corridor after "hearing all the confusion" and saw a stockily built man calmly walking away.

"He had a brief case under his arm and his right hand was in his coat pocket," O'Connor said. "I heard somebody say: 'Mr. Whitcomb has been shot.' Then I hurried after the man and I think he walked down one flight."

"Just then one of the elevators in the building came up and I told the elevator man to try and stop the gunman. That's the last I saw of him."

One elevator operator said he saw a man who answered the slayer's description leave the building but that he didn't see a brief case.

Murder Victim Noted Millman

New England industrialists, shocked by the mysterious murder of William A. Whitcomb in his Boston office today, termed the 73-year-old victim one of the most able of eastern executives.

Whitcomb was president of the Great Northern Paper Co., which is one of the largest in Maine. Thousands of acres of timberland are owned by the concern, which was one of the first in the country to conduct experiments with reforestation. The company deals mainly with newsprint.

Prior to the war, Whitcomb was associated in Washington with the old N.R.A. and he aided in formulating price and production controls for newsprint.

Later, Whitcomb broke with the New Deal administration and was outspoken in his criticism of the Roosevelt administration and the new deal.

The Great Northern practically created the town of Millinocket, Me., the mills being erected on land owned by the company. The town sprang up when workers constructed homes.

Whitcomb had been president of the Great Northern since 1928. Prior to that he was with the company in various official capacities for 17 years. Before that he was vice president of the International Paper Co.

R. R. Holding Bill Sent to Tobin

The Legislature today enacted and sent to the governor an act dissolving the Boston Railroad Holding Co.

Under the terms of the bill the holding company will be given a year to dispose of its assets which consist of 26 per cent of the voting stock of the Boston & Maine railroad.

The holding company is controlled by the New Haven railroad.

House Speeds Hearing To Head Off Ship Strike

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP)—Chairman Augustine B. Kelley of a House labor subcommittee said today he was going ahead with plans to work out a congressional solution of the maritime dispute now that other federal mediation attempts appear deadlocked. Kelley, of the subcommittee on labor-management, said:

"We had hoped for a settlement by tomorrow but now it looks like there will be nothing coming out of Labor Department negotiations so we feel we should get busy right away. The deadline for the strike is getting right on us."

Kelley said his committee would open hearings tomorrow with testimony from either Joseph Curran, president of the CIO National Maritime Union, or Harry Bridges, head of the CIO International Longshoremen's Warehousemen's Union. They are co-chairmen of CHU. Another witness will be Joseph Selly, president of the CIO American Communications Assn.

Union preparations for the strike set for midnight Friday roared into high gear after the CIO National Maritime Union turned down a proposal to give seamen shore leave with pay.

"This suggestion first was put forward by Labor Dept. conciliators as a possible way to break the deadlock over length of the work-week at sea.

The idea was to give one day of shore leave for every 14 days at sea, and keep the present 56-hour week—eight hours a day, seven days a week.

Eastern ship operators accepted the suggestion last night and formally offered it as a proposal in a negotiating session which lasted until well after midnight.

But the union, which is demanding a 44-hour week, rejected the idea as "impractical."

Donald had been to the Red Sox-Detroit doubleheader and, on returning home, went over to a chum's house to tell about the wonderful double victory of his heroes—and just forgot to go home.

Simmons Degrees To 2 Men, 318 Girls

For the first time in history, two men were among the 320 who received degrees and diplomas today at Simmons College commencement exercises in Symphony Hall.

The men recipients were Martin Cohen, Clarkson rd., Dorchester, and Robert Sillen, Algonquin rd., Quincy, who received bachelor of science degrees under the new Simmons plan which admits men students for advanced study. Cohen, a former GI, is a Harvard graduate of 1937, while Sillen was graduated from Colby in 1944.

Another tradition was broken when the first "class mother" was on hand to receive not only her degree but a present for her offspring.

It is a Simmons custom to present a class mascot to the first mother, but always before there had been quite a wait. But today Mrs. James Simakis, Burbank st., Back Bay, already had her mascot and her baby, a little daughter born May 7. She is the former Barbara Meltzer of Brookline, who continued her studies after her marriage to a Coast Guardsman.

Vera Michels Dean, research director, Foreign Policy Ass'n, was the commencement speaker and traced for the young graduates the trend of politics in Europe, describing "a people's peace" as "a long, hard process."

"The results of the elections that are rapidly succeeding each other in Europe confirms the conclusions reported last autumn in Foreign Policy Ass'n publications that the prevailing trend on the continent is away from both Right extremism and Communism," the speaker said. "The trend is toward what might be described as social democracy."

"This middle of the road social democracy is gaining power despite civil hatreds and hunger. It is composed of two major elements, both unfamiliar to American politics. It includes the Socialists, also known as Social Democrats, and the Catholic Socialists, variously known as Christian Democrats, Christian Socialists or, as in France, Popular Republicans."

Up They Go— Cereals Next

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP)—Prices housewives pay for three kinds of breakfast cereals are going up soon and other types probably will cost more shortly, an OPA official said today.

This official, who asked anonymity, said prices for puffed rice, puffed wheat and corn flakes would be raised about two cents a pound, possibly this week.

The increase is necessary, the official added, because of higher costs of grain and a reduction of cereals output, resulting from famine relief requirements.

OPA is making a survey of the cost of producing other breakfast cereals.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

IT IS AN INALIENABLE RIGHT for an American to join and belong to any association he chooses. He may be a Mason, a Knight of Columbus, a Rotarian, a Kiwanian, a member of a couple of hundred Protestant sects or the Yogis of the Omnipotent Oom or Father Divine's conclaves. He may be all these and a Republican, a Democrat, a Communist or a Prohibitionist. Anybody can join anything. Recently, I addressed the D. A. R. at Atlantic City and watched the Cedars of Lebanon, in costume, do their hi-jinks on the boardwalk.

Yet, in Boonville, Indiana, Americans—16 of them—were instructed to resign from the local Junior Chamber of Commerce, or they would be expelled from District 11 of the United Mine Workers of America.

HENRY KEARNS, president of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, writes me:

"The Boonville U. M. W. men who were active members of the local junior chamber were forced to resign. They had joined the Jaycees because they were eager to make Boonville a better town in which to live by working for public health, safety, youth welfare, and the other worthwhile projects of the junior chamber. When they explained to the union that the Junior Chamber of Commerce was an independent civic organization, the protest fell on deaf ears."

Prentice McNeely, president of the Boonville Junior Chamber of Commerce, states:

"This is to assure you that I, personally, was told by Ernest Goad, district representative of the United Mine Workers, that Mr. Louis Austin, president, District Number 11, United Mine Workers of America, Terre Haute, Indiana, had ruled that the local mine workers could not join our Junior Chamber of Commerce, and we, therefore, were forced to refund paid membership dues to some of these mine workers."

SO HERE IS ANOTHER example of coercion and compulsion. It used to be that Americans believed in live and let live. They prized themselves that they enjoyed a sense of humor. A gentleman was one who minded his own business. If a group of Americans wanted to unite for a purpose, it was nobody's business but their own, no matter what kind of an organization it turned out to be. There must be thousands of associations of all kinds, representing all points of view, all sorts of activities, all sorts of attitudes toward life. And Americans joined them criss-cross.

A man might be an Elk and belong to the CIO, the Presbyterian church, Rotary, the Chamber of Commerce, a golf club and a society for the prevention of cruelty to cats. Nobody cared. If that is what a man likes to do with his time, that is up to him. If he covers his lapel with buttons and insignia, that is his taste. And taste is something that even Congress cannot legislate nor the Supreme Court destroy.

BUT HERE IS ONE of John L. Lewis' districts telling its members what it may join and what is prohibited. It would seem that when an American ties up with a modern labor union, he not only renounces the right to an independent mind but he sells his soul. PAC has, in effect, been doing that indirectly by telling CIO members for whom they are to vote, thus impairing the secrecy of a free election. And many labor unions, particularly CIO ones, require their members, by a tax, to contribute to political campaign funds irrespective of their beliefs, opinions, and desires. That, of course, is compulsion.

Compulsion is a new, virulent disease in American life, spreading in epidemic form. One method of compulsion is to frighten independent Americans by smear, so bitter, so unfair, so humiliating, that many men shrink from facing the consequences of such a barrage of infamy. It is growing increasingly unpleasant for Americans to join any organization that favors American ideals as expressed in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States. Such Americans are thereupon vigorously and hatefully described as fascists, anti-Semites, anti-Negro, Red-baiters—anything that comes into the heads of these votaries of compulsion by smear, who not only seek to imprison the minds of our people but to destroy their liberties.

SHE'S TOPS—
Pretty Jane Russell, film actress, "has the handsomest chest and rib cage in the world," said Dr. J. Howard Crum, Manhattan plastic surgeon, after spending weeks of poring over X-ray pictures of the sultry film beauty. However, the Doc had faint praise for beautiful Lana Turner, one of Hollywood's top stars.

Curley Urges 6-Lane Road Along River

The Massachusetts Legislature, hoping to prorogue this week, was urged today by Mayor Curley and civic leaders to enact legislation which would eliminate Back st., one of Boston's worst eyesores, and replace it with a six-lane riverside highway from Embankment rd. to Soldiers Field rd., Brighton.

In letters to Gov. Tobin, Senate President Coolidge and House Speaker Willis, Mayor Curley pointed out the urgent nature of this essential public improvement, saying:

"As you know, the problem of vehicular traffic in the city of Boston, which has long been surrounded with great difficulties, will inevitably become more acute in the immediate future unless steps are taken now to provide a solution.

"The General Court has, during the present session, taken steps to relieve one aspect of that problem by legislation authorizing the construction of a garage beneath Boston Common and the provision for off-street parking.

"The provision for adequate parking facilities, while of great assistance, is not in itself sufficient to provide adequate relief. Additional steps must be taken to provide moving vehicles with swifter and less congested routes to and from the city.

"The project which will most efficiently, conveniently and economically satisfy this second demand is the construction of a roadway between Beacon st. and the Charles river basin, joining Embankment rd. with Soldiers' Field rd.

"Such a highway will relieve the present enormous volume of traffic on Beacon st. and Commonwealth ave. and will afford speedy and unimpeded access between Boston and communities to the west.

"Studies of the Boston Transit Commission demonstrate more than two-thirds of the vehicular traffic in Boston originates in other communities. Boston's traffic problem, therefore, does not originate within its own boundaries and cannot be solved by the city alone."

Plans for the proposed six-lane highway to replace the existing rubbish-littered lane which is Back st. have been completed.

Jane Russell Beauty Even In X-Rays

Jane Russell, flamboyant film actress and pin-up choice of thousands of admiring GIs during the war, has been diagnosed as having the handsomest "chest and rib cage" in the world by Dr. J. Howard Crum, Manhattan plastic surgeon, after weeks of poring over X-ray pictures of the voluptuous beauty's anatomy.

According to Dr. Crum, Miss Russell is an example of "the tremendous skeletal advancement over the female bodies of other years," and he added that the esthetic millenium of the female form is approaching, if it has not already arrived.

To many of her admirers, who have spent hours contemplating her alluring newspaper and magazine photographs, the news about her perfect chest and rib cage may be reassuring.

The doctor also summed up his X-ray findings on Tony Seven, another pulchritudinous pin-up girl, who, he said, is a memorable example of the beautiful "calcium and phosphorus growth and formation" noted in modern women—especially in the femur, tibia and fibula regions. Further, the Doc wants it known that Tony has fine legs.

Model Eve Arden, Crum found, has hip and lower back development which is a credit to the aesthetic advancement in human anatomy, but Lana Turner came out of the laboratory with only abdomen and upper back honors. He admits, however, that Lana has other features deserving attention.

X-rays of Miriam Hopkins convinced the surgeon that her teeth and face structures were about the best to be found today. Hedda Hopper got the nod for her skull formation, and Elsa Maxwell was complimented for hand and elbows.

Court to Probe Custody of Girl

Judge Mahoney today ordered an investigation of a custody battle over 15-year-old Jean Marie Uva, a student at the Country Day School of the Sacred Heart, Newton, and beneficiary of a $100,000 trust fund.

Judge Mahoney said: "We seem to be fighting over a trust fund and not this young lady. I shall appoint my own investigator."

The judge ordered Jean back to the Avon pl., Newton, home of an aunt, Rosa Baldassar, who had filed a petition for guardianship.

In court, however, Jean said her Aunt Rose was too strict with her. She said she preferred her maternal uncle, Anthony "Canadian" Sandrelli, Prince st., North End.

Many Homes Still Without Phones, Light

Emergency crews hustled to restore electric service for hundreds of Greater Boston homes to save perishable foods from spoiling in idle refrigerators today as a Boston Edison

Co. spokesman described the freak wind and hailstorm as "more destructive than the 1944 hurricane."

While electric service slowly returned to normal, the New England Telephone and Telegraph Co. estimated some 25,000 telephones still out of order. Full crews of emergency repairmen will need three more days to restore normal conditions. More than 100 telephone poles were felled, and telephone wires and other electric lines were downed by hundreds of crashing trees.

Damage to Boston trees was nearly as great as that caused by the 1938 hurricane, Park Commr. William P. Long reported today after surveying debris-littered streets and parks.

More than 300 trees were felled in different parts of the city, while limbs were torn from hundreds of others. Longwood ave., Forest Hills pkwy., the Strandway in South Boston and Franklin Park were among the sections most heavily hit.

Commr. Long sought 25 men from other city departments to augment his crew of 100 removing debris. Cranes and electric saws were used to speed the task, expected to take several days.

Scarcity of another item—glass—was underscored by the plight of many householders whose windows were smashed by heavy hailstones.

Medford caught the full brunt of the hailstone barrage, and in the Swan High School in Washington st. 102 window panes were broken.

Meanwhile, the toll stood at 15 dead in New England, with damage variously estimated from $250,000 to several million.

3 Rescued Off Dory, 2 Missing

Three of five men missing in dories off Brant Rock were rescued by the Coast Guard today in heavy seas in Massachusetts Bay and landed at Princetown by the Woods End station motor launch.

They are Henry Kuzia, 27, of Boston st., Chester Kuzia, 33, his cousin, of Newport st., and Charles Strugalski, 25, of Mosley st., all Dorchester. Their fishing dory had been swept to sea before dark yesterday.

At the same time, Coast Guard planes and cutters hunted the area for another dory and two men identified only as LeBlanc and Thibodeaux. The latter had hired a dory at the same Brant Rock livery place as the Dorchester men.

Auto Death Toll Only 2 for Week

Announcing that only two persons were fatally injured on Massachusetts roads last week, Registrar Rudolph F. King said, "This record should encourage us, motorists and pedestrians alike, to make every effort to continue this improvement."

One victim was a pedestrian and the other a motor vehicle passenger. Deaths this year thus far total 221, compared with 167 in the same period last year.

Girl Sees GI Kill Self in Thunder Echo Like Saipan

PITTSBURGH, June 10 (AP)—Fear born of the rolling thunder of big guns that brought peril of death on Saipan in 1944 took a fresh grip on the mind of a former Pittsburgh Marine corporal in the week-end's booming thunderstorms—and cost him his life.

Roy E. Delaplaine, Jr., of suburban Wilkensburg, was with his girl-friend, Miss Eva Shivers, when he clasped his hands over his ears at a loud clap of thunder and shouted:

"I can't stand it!" Miss Shivers said: "hen suddenly, he just bolted from me."

With her mother, she taxied to the home of the 29-year-old ex-marine.

"He was standing near the stairs, holding a pistol," Miss Shivers said. "We tried to reason with him but he paid no attention. Suddenly, he told us to get out."

The two women left to get help, but on the sidewalk they heard a shot.

Delaplaine had put a bullet through his head.

Navy Expert Warns Of Terrible Weapons

NEW YORK, June 10 (INS)—A Navy science expert today warned of the annihilation of civilian populations in future wars by such terrifying weapons as radioactive and biological poisons and the changing climates by deflection of ocean currents.

N. Y. Rail Strike Report Rushed

NEW YORK, June 10 (INS)—

A presidential fact-finding board sped up its inquiry into the strike on the Hudson and Manhattan railroad today in an effort to submit a report to the White House before next week-end as federal officials remained silent on the railroad's management request that President Truman take over the line.

The strikers, members of the Railroad Trainmen and Engineers Brotherhoods, continued to boycott the fact-finding hearings.

William E. Skutt, general chairman of the railroad engineers, predicting the Hudson and Manhattan would refuse to comply if the board supported the strikers' demand for an 18 1/2 cents an hour wage increase, declared the strikers would not return to work under presidential seizure unless assured of the wage increase.

"This 'Flash Gordon' concept of future conflicts was presented by Capt. R. D. Conrad, Navy's director of research planning, in an address to members of the Navy civilian orientation course at Columbia.

Conrad described guided missiles carrying atomic bombs, deflection of ocean currents and radioactive and biological poisons to prohibit life in large areas as "powers on the way to us" unless the world prepares to prevent their terrible employment.

The Navy expert declared giant submarines and ships driven by atomic power plants, guided atomic missiles and "a host of new weapons" in a profuse variety of form "are near at hand."

He also revealed the Navy plans to install laboratories in large airplanes to study cosmic rays, which he called "many times more penetrating than any machine can yet produce."

Conrad said "With virtually unlimited power to command, and with poisons and bacteria to kill, conflicts will not be waged with the weapons we see in the middle distance.

"The objectives will not be the destruction of armies, navies and air forces. It will be much simpler. The objective will be to annihilate the enemy population and to make his homeland uninhabitable.

"Make no mistakes; this lies at the end of the road.

"Crops can be destroyed by disease. Climates can be changed by deflecting ocean currents. Rivers can be diverted and lakes drained. Radioactive poisons can restrict or prohibit life in large areas.

"These powers are not ours yet—thank God—but they are on the way to us, and the future of mankind depends on how we prepare to defend ourselves against them and how the world prepares to prevent their terrible employment."

Bill for State Development Board Filed

The House ways and means committee today filed with the clerk of the House a bill providing a $350,000 expansion of the Massachusetts Development Commission as a substitute proposal for Gov. Tobin's recommended $1,000,000-a-year State Department of Commerce.

Five Democratic members of the committee dissented from the Republican majority report, however, and a party fight is expected when the bill comes up for House debate later today.

The bill provides a division of commerce in the present state commission "to promote and develop the economic, industrial, agricultural, recreational and natural resources of the Commonwealth."

This department would be regulated by a five-man commission, unpaid and appointed by the Governor with approval of the executive council. The present members of the Massachusetts Development Commission would serve until expiration of their present terms.

They would have the power to expand the newly created department and hire a director, a secretary and needed experts. The bill further provides a $40,000 fund to conduct an investigation to determine why business has migrated from this state.

Gov. Tobin originally proposed creation of a new Department of Commerce in his inaugural message in January, 1945. The Legislature that year sent the proposal to a recess commission for study.

The commission, headed by Joseph P. Kennedy, former ambassador to Great Britain, spent months touring the state and finally gave wholehearted support to the government proposal.

Next to the new bathing suits for women and the price of Scotch I know of no subject that excites the average stockbroker quite as much as Zarah and his uncanny ability to undersell. Break into any group at the State St. Tavern or the Ball-in-Hand and the probabilities are the boys are discussing not the Dow-Jones averages or the A-bomb but the Thief of State Street who, contrary to the opinion of the uninitiated, steals not from the public but only from himself. Now why this shirt and tie tycoon so persistently gives his stuff away is easily explained. He just hates the profit system and this is his blow for freedom. But why he picked the brokerage district in which to distribute his largesse is another and more fascinating story. Let's let Mr. Z. tell it in his own retiring manner—

Shortly after the Spanish American War I graduated from grammar school summa cum laude, skipped high school completely and then hurdled college in one lost week end. Being by nature the acquisitive type I decided to renounce an earlier predilection for the ballet and enter the marts of trade. Brilliantly successful from the beginning I amassed a nickel here and a dime there until after half a lifetime of foregoing the pleasures of the present for the security of the future I had saved a few thousand dollars. Seeing that the rewards for one's sweat were as nothing compared to the returns from banking I decided to invest my money and retire at 35. Instead of consulting the stars of Dave Wilson as I should have I called in the services of a fraternity brother, a stock broker, who because of his marvelous connections was in a position to let me in on the ownership of some of America's greatest corporations. From now on it was to be me and Morgan and my dream portfolio listed, amongst others, Kruger and Toll, Eccentric Bond and Fara, and that blue chip to end all blue chips, Rainbow Luminous. All this was in July, 1929. Sixty days later I was back to where my Dad started in Harpoon, Armenia.

In the old country it has been an eye for an eye for centuries. Who am I to deny the ways of my ancestors?

First A-Day Test Dummy Bomb Is Fired in Pacific

ABOARD MT. MCKINLEY, near Bikini, June 9 (via Navy radio, delayed) (AP)—This atomic bomb test force put into the air for the first time today its intricate pattern of Army and Navy aviation to rehearse for A-day.

Maj. Gen. William E. Kepner, commander of Army atomic test operations, sent aloft about 75 aircraft of various types from Kwajalein, Eniwetok and two carriers. He directed the rehearsal from this flagship of V. Adm. William P. Blandy, commander of the atomic task force.

Kepner said he was "very gratified" but improvements must be made in the radio communications system before A-day, early in July. (This dispatch could not report where the dummy bomb fell.)

The dummy drop was scheduled for 9 a. m. The bombardier reported "bomb away" 8:58:45 a. m. 1 minute, 15 seconds ahead of schedule. Immediately, B-29's released parachutes with simulated blast recording instruments.

Navy and Army officers, however, "saw" the whole operation by radar in the combat intelligence center of the Mt. McKinley.

STRIKE MAY TIE MONTERREY

MEXICO CITY, June 10 (AP)—The threat of a general strike hung over Monterrey, a city of 133,000, today as negotiators failed to reach agreement on means of settling two labor disputes.

Gardner Vet Converts Bus Into Home

GARDNER, June 10—Faced with eviction from his apartment in Sherman st. in two weeks, Edgar J. Letelier, paratroop veteran, purchased an old bus, set it up on land he owns in Stewart st. and was busy today converting it into a three-room apartment for himself and his bride.

The Leteliers are being forced from their present quarters by the return of the owner, Howard Clark, from Army service in Germany.

Letelier tried for the past several weeks to obtain materials necessary to build his own home but has been unsuccessful. Finally he evolved the idea of buying the discarded bus and making a home of it.

The veteran is doing all the work himself and when finished the new quarters will have electric lights, running water and other conveniences.

City, Town Vet Housing O. K'd

The State Supreme Judicial Court today advised the Massachusetts Legislature that pending legislation to permit cities and towns to provide housing for veterans is constitutional.

Because of doubts over the constitutionality of the proposed legislation, Gov. Tobin had requested an advisory opinion from the court.

The justices held spending of public funds to house veterans "is a public purpose, even though individuals as such may profit thereby."

Cruelty to N. E. Vets Jails Japs

YOKOHAMA, June 10 (AP)—An Eighth Army tribunal today sentenced Sgt. Jwao Kawasaki, former guard at Fukuoka prisoner of war camp, to 25 years' imprisonment for war crimes.

Kawasaki was charged with throwing William C. Mahoney of Peabody, Mass., into a pit of water in cold weather and forcing him to kneel nude with a pole behind his knees.

Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger approved a 50-year prison sentence for Lt. Miyoroku Okada, former Nagoya prisoner of war camp commandant. Among the men he was convicted of mistreating was Sgt. Samuel Moody of Lynn, Mass.

Stassen Future Seen in Balance

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen puts the chips down tomorrow in a Nebraska senatorial primary that can inflate or puncture his chances for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination.

The former Minnesota Governor is actively backing Gov. Dwight Griswold, seeking to wrest the GOP senatorial nomination from one-term incumbent Hugh Butler. The question of future handling of foreign affairs has bulked large in the campaign.

If Griswold wins, Stassen may have a chance of getting Nebraska's 15 votes in the 1948 Republican convention. If Butler wins, Stassen gets a political black eye and somebody else takes Nebraska's 15.

Draftees Quit Jim Crow Bus

SUFFOLK, Va., June 10 (AP)—The first repercussion of the U. S. Supreme Court's ruling against segregation of races on interstate buses was felt in Virginia today when 23 white Nansemond County draftees left a Greyhound bus rather than sit next to Negroes.

The draftees, headed for Richmond for induction, walked off the bus because, they said, Negroes occupied half of the many available seats and refused to double up.

New 3 Billion Cut Asked by Truman

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP)—President Truman today recommended to Congress the repeal of appropriations totalling $3,089,436,506 plus contract authorizations totalling $174,178,000.

The White House said these amounts are in addition to three previous rescissions totalling $52,914,924.373 in cash and $4,674,706,880 in authorizations. Included in the appropriations recommended for repeal today were $1,138,258,365 for the civil agencies of the Government.

Iowa Hotel Fire Toll 16 Dead, 23 Missing

DUBUQUE, Ia., June 10 (AP)—The death toll in a tragic fire at the Canfield Hotel went to 16 today as a three-pronged investigation was started to determine the cause of the blaze which swept the 200-room structure shortly after midnight yesterday.
Taking leading parts in the investigation were the state fire marshals' office, the Dubuque county attorney and the coroner. At the same time Dr. F. S. Leonard, coroner, countermanded a previous decision and said an inquest would be held before a three-member jury.
The 16th fatal victim of the fire was Mrs. William Canfield, 73, wife of the hotel owner. Her husband was taken dead from the ruins yesterday. She died in Mercy Hospital of third degree burns.

Three of the dead remained unidentified and 23 persons still were reported missing by the Red Cross. Fifteen more were in the hospital.

While officers held off further search for bodies on orders of Deputy State Fire Marshal Zach Cook who said were "dangerously sagging," the Red Cross continued a radio appeal for all persons who were registered at the hotel Saturday night to report to the Red Cross.

Fire Chief Perry Kirch said he believed most persons unaccounted for after fire roared through the 55-year-old building early yesterday morning were permanent guests at the hotel, but had left for the weekend.

Three from Salisbury Feared Fire Victims

Relatives and friends on the North Shore awaited today confirmation of fears that three of the victims of the Dubuque, Iowa, hotel fire are a family recently reunited in Salisbury.

They are Com. Robert E. Taylor, 43, of the Merchant Marine, his wife, Mrs. Florence Taylor, 42, and their daughter, Mrs. Helen Ingalls, 21, a nurse at Beverly Hospital. Mrs. Taylor was killed in a leap from a hotel window, and her husband and daughter are believed to have perished also.

The couple arrived a month ago at the home of Mrs. Taylor's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Pettigill of Lafayette rd., Salisbury, and departed a week ago with their daughter for their home in Los Angeles.

Picture Editor's Wife Dies at 35

Funeral arrangements were being made today for Mrs. Ann McCormack, 35, of Broadway, Arlington, wife of Robert V. McCormack, night picture editor of the Boston Evening American.

Mrs. McCormack died last night at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital after a prolonged illness.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by two children, Elaine, 12, and Joan, 11; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schriber of Arlington; a sister, Mrs. Charles A. Baker of Long Beach, Cal., and two brothers, John of Somerville and Donald of Arlington.

Thomas Harding Rites Wednesday

Funeral services for Thomas F. Harding, 52, of Revere, for 25 years amusement operator at Revere Beach, who died from a heart attack at Massachusetts General Hospital after a two weeks' illness, will be held Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. in St. Ann's Episcopal Church, Revere, with Rev. John Hull of Groveland officiating.

Masonic services will be conducted tomorrow at the DeNeil Funeral Home, Broadway, Revere. Burial will be in Glenwood cemetery, Revere. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Nora Hallett Harding, and three brothers, Harry, Jack and William, all of Revere.

Frozen Blue Plate Specials Now Near for Housewives

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP)—The postwar dinner—ready-made from plate to gravy—is on the way.

The meal of the future looks like a boon to brides, bachelors and the little woman whose husband calls up with "just three extra" for supper.

The housewife can simply drop by the grocery, toss some steak dinners in the car (when steak comes back, that is) and make for home. In 15 minutes or a half-hour, it's on the table.

They're frozen dinners, latest thing on transatlantic airways and now being perfected for plain, ordinary people. They were first served aboard naval air transports during the war.

Dinner meat, vegetable and potato—will come in a pulpwood plate, made along blue plate special lines and sporting a plastic finish.

It's been cooked and frozen—to a chilly 20 degrees below zero.

All it needs now is just 30 minutes in the oven.

A trick, which had experimenters puzzled for six years, was how to make all three ingredients come out even. Sometimes, it seems, the string beans would frizzle while the steak was just beginning to thaw.

On planes, special "whirlwind ovens," blowing a 30-mile-an-hour gale on the plates, bring the food from below-zero to piping hot in 15 minutes.

Steak-haters please note: "Pan-American spokesmen say the dinners also now come in chicken, ham and roast turkey.

Pauley Protests Red Ban Again

SEOUL, June 10 (AP)—Edwin W. Pauley today told newsmen "Again I register my protest" because his reparations commission was "not allowed to cover two areas" on its recent inspection of Russian-occupied north Korea. His statement, replying to written questions submitted Friday by newsmen, did not specify whether he was protesting to Russia or through the press.

He said, "I am still disappointed that we were denied entrance" to the Chongjin and Hungnam areas.

"Any satisfaction I displayed (in a May 31 press release) was due to the fact I believe we had fairly complete coverage in three of the five areas we asked for."

Paraguay Rebel Plot Fails, 5 Die

ASUNCION, Paraguay, June 10 (AP)—A pre-dawn barracks revolt in which five Paraguayan soldiers were killed Sunday appeared quelled today after President Gen. Higinio Morinigo "resumed" control of the army and four high cavalry officers fled to the Brazilian embassy.

Rifle and artillery fire rattled around the suburban Campo Grande barracks for four hours to 6 a. m. Sunday and truckloads of soldiers sped through the streets.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 10 (AP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley, veterans' administrator, said today 4,000,000 veterans would be unemployed next fall unless jobs continue to be created. In an address at the 31st annual convention of Kiwanis International, Gen. Bradley gave these veterans statistics

Nine million of 12,500,000 discharged from services now employed.

Seven hundred and fifty thousand enrolled in schools and on-the-job training.

One million, seven hundred and fifty thousand drawing readjustment allowances.

He said 250,000 student-veterans would find no room in first-choice schools to which they would apply.

Bradley said housing shortages, joblessness and inflation were consequences of the war, and veterans "must suffer these outcroppings of war."

Shoppers Tie Hub Traffic

A Monday morning influx of shoppers and trucks was blamed for traffic tieups in downtown Boston today after motorists complained of half-hour delays on South End streets leading to the business section.

Deputy Police Supt. Hinchey, head of the traffic division, said despite the congestion, through traffic was crossing the city faster than at any time in his recollection and in general, conditions were "good."

Because of the food shortage and anticipated rush for week-end provisions, Friday is expected to be a peak traffic day in the market area, Hinchey warned.

In New England, about one out of five have a "germ" disease referred to as Sinus Trouble!

Nine out of ten so affected believe that because of absence of pain, it is merely Catarrh and needs no relief.

More bodily ailments can be traced to Sinus Trouble than to any other single malady.

Doctors claim that over 50% of Asthma is caused by Sinus Trouble. The lining of the heart may become involved. The kidneys may be attacked. Deafness and middle ear infection are common, necessitating mastoid operations. Moreover, there is apt to be a general debility with a lack of vital energy, in addition to frequent head colds.

REMOVE THE CAUSE AND YOU REMOVE THE
TROUBLE. We have records to prove that this can be done! Treatments can be taken without discomfort, are moderately priced, and administered under a doctor's direction.

thoroughly from roof to cellar but could find no trace of the slayer nor anyone who had seen him making his way out after he left the eighth floor.

The killer had visited the Paper Co. offices last Wednesday or Thursday and talked with Miss Sally Whitcomb of Strathmore rd., Brighton, Whitcomb's private secretary, and Miss Doris Kimball, secretary to William O. McKay, vice-president of the company.

At that time he told them his name was Homans, that he represented the Treasury Department and that he wished to see Mr. Whitcomb on private business.

They informed him Whitcomb was all at his home in Common St., Dedham, and that he was not expected back in the office until today.

Shortly before 10:30 a. m. today, the stranger again entered the office and was recognized by Miss Kimball and asked to take a seat.

She informed Miss Whitcomb, who notified Whitcomb that the treasury agent who had been seeking him last week was waiting to see him. Whitcomb told her to show him in and she escorted the stranger to the office, telling him as they walked along that she remembered him from his visit last week.

After showing him in, she closed the door of Whitcomb's office and went to her own office nearby.

During the brief five minutes the stranger was in Whitcomb's office, Miss Whitcomb heard a muffled sound but thought nothing of it until she saw the stranger leaving. She entered Whitcomb's office to find him slumped dead on the floor beside his desk.

His frightened cry brought McKay hurrying to the Whitcomb office and, after ascertaining the head of the company was dead, he called police.

He then summoned Whitcomb's close friend, James W. Wheeler, of the Boston Storage Warehouse Co. from his office across the hall. O'Connor, who glimpsed the killer starting down the stairway from the eighth-floor corridor, had slipped to the door to see what was going on, when McKay rushed into the office to summon Wheeler. Dr. Paul Rooney, an insurance company doctor, was the first medical man to reach the scene and pronounced Whitcomb dead, saying he had been shot "apparently more than once."

Police said four shots were fired by the killer and that two of them had gone wild, lodging in the wall of the office.

They expressed belief a silence had been used after hearing Miss Whitcomb's description of the muffled sound she had heard.

At the height of the confusion in the Whitcomb offices after the killing was discovered, former Gov. Percival Baxter of Maine arrived to keep an appointment and was profoundly shocked at the news of the death of his old friend.

A crowd gathered quickly outside the building at Devonshire and Franklin sts., as police cars converged on the area and a crowd of officers was thrown about the three entrances of the building.

Although the killer apparently had made good his escape before they arrived, officers made a painstaking search throughout the building and guarded all doors on the possibility the slayer might still be inside.

Whitcomb's wife, Mrs. Grace Merrill Whitcomb, collapsed at their home, the old Samuel Warren estate, in Dedham, when she was informed of his death.

His daughter, Merle, and a son, John hurried to the office after learning of the shooting and remained there until Medical Examiner William J. Brickley arrived shortly after 1 p. m. and viewed the body.

Neither they nor officials and employees of the concern could shed any light on the motive for the shooting.

Whitcomb was known by few and seemed to shun publicity.

The door to his office bears only the name of himself and other officials without any company designation. The first floor directory carries no notation except "William A. Whitcomb" without identifying him with the paper company.

Whitcomb, who had been ill at his home for the past week, left home accompanied by his daughter, Merle, this morning and stopped at a Dedham news agency as was his custom to buy a morning paper. He and his daughter then boarded a bus for Boston.

A native of Indiana, Whitcomb attended DePauw University and later went to Yale where he was a football star in the 90's.

He entered the employ of the Glens Falls Paper Mills Co. after his graduation from Sheffield Scientific School and later was associated with the International Paper Co. in New York before going to the Great Northern Paper Co. in 1919. He had been president of the company since 1928.

He married Grace Merrill in 1903 and they were the parents of three children, a daughter, Merle, and two sons, John and William A. Jr.

Both sons served in the armed forces in World War II.

Sharkey Rescues 4 From Fumes

Four members of a Newton family, blinded by smoke and ammonia fumes, were led to safety today by Jack Sharkey, former heavyweight boxing champion, when fire broke out in the basement of the New England Peabody Home Tea Room, Brookline, Newton.

They were Mr. and Mrs. Paul DeWitt and their children, Ruth Jean, 13, and Robert, 11. Mrs. DeWitt is manager of the tea room, operated in connection with the New England Peabody Home for Crucial Children.

Sharkey, who lives across the street from the tea room, heard cries for help and led the family outdoors as firemen arrived. Firemen said a refrigerator, starting up following a power shutdown during Saturday's storm, burst into flame and released the fumes.

Wants Williams Jury Locked Up

Dist. Atty. Clegg today asked Judge Hurley to keep locked up the jury being selected in the trial of two Greater Boston men charged in Salem superior court with the murder of Robert "Tex" Williams, 39, ex-Marine, whose body was found last Aug. 7 on the Lynn marshes.

Judge Hurley said he would decide the matter when selection of the jury is completed. Only one juror was chosen by the time an afternoon recess was called.

Charged with first degree murder are Philip Bellino, 30, Anderson St., West End, and Edward Gertson, 34 Chestnut st., Everett. Charles Mania, 30, North Russell st., West End, is charged with being an accessory after the fact.

Italy Proclaims Nation Republic

ROME, June 10 (AP)—Italy formally became a republic late today.

In brief ceremonies in Montecitorio Palace's "Hall of the Wolf," Chief Justice Giuseppe Pagano announced that the Court of Cassation, highest tribunal in Italy, had officially determined that the people had voted out the House of Savoy monarchy in the plebiscite last week.

It was believed King Umberto would leave immediately for Portugal, where he will join his wife and children in exile.

THE HUM-M-M IS YOUR

"GO AHEAD"

SIGNAL

HUM-M-M

Please wait for it before dialing

Usually you'll hear the steady "hum-m-m" of the dial tone almost immediately upon lifting your receiver. That's your signal to "go ahead" and begin dialing your number.

When you dial before you hear the dial tone, you'll get a wrong number—or no number at all. Jiggling the receiver hampers your call, too... forces it to begin all over at the Central Office.

In certain circumstances, dial equipment becomes overloaded. That's because in many places we have temporarily connected more telephones to the Central Office than we would normally, in order to give more people service. At such times, there may be a delay of some seconds before you get the dial tone.

Remember... it will help you and everyone get swifter service if you'll wait for the dial tone's continuous hum.

DELAY in getting the dial tone does not usually mean that anything is wrong with your line. Normally, it indicates that central office equipment is temporarily overloaded. Please do not report your line out of order without first allowing plenty of time to hear the dial tone.

Proposed Parkway Would Aid Hub Traffic Problem

Along Basin—View looking from Kenmore sq. section towards Cottage Farm bridge, shows part of Charles River Basin where proposed six-lane highway will run, relieving Back Bay streets of much of the traffic now tangling up there every day.

INP by Carroll Myett

Back Street—One of the worst eyesores in the city would be eliminated by the proposed construction of a new highway. The present unpaved, littered alley would become part of the beautified drive which legislators are being asked to consider as one of the most important projects for them to decide on before adjourning.

Looking North—From Massachusetts ave., at Harvard Bridge, this view shows how the Charles River Drive will skirt the basin and give traffic moving across the city free access to a through highway enabling motorists to avoid the traffic of the business and commercial districts.

THE RIGHT CLIMAX

THE PRESENT Legislature, the finest law-making body in Massachusetts history, should not adjourn before it authorizes the construction of a six-lane boulevard along the Charles River Basin, from Embankment Road to Soldiers' Field in Brighton.

The authorization will commemorate for all time the work of senators and representatives who have dedicated themselves to public service and enduring prosperity.

As the late President Roosevelt said when he visited his son, John, in the latter's Beacon Street home, the Charles River Basin Boulevard will be the most beautiful project of its kind in the world—more beautiful than Riverside Drive in New York and Lake Shore Drive in Chicago.

Moreover, the Charles River Basin Boulevard will eliminate Back Street, between Beacon Street and the river bank.

And, as every Bostonian knows, Back Street is the worst eyesore in Massachusetts, a veritable slum alley and a constant source of disease and crime.

Fifteen million motor vehicles will use the boulevard every year.

Avoiding the congestion and hazards of Commonwealth Avenue and Beacon Street, the operators of these vehicles will save more than $2,000,000 in fuel.

Accidents will be prevented. Scores of lives will be saved.

The needless decay of the whole Back Bay area will be stopped.

Property values will be increased.

And Boston will be made an immeasurably happier and healthier city in which to live and to drive.

THE CHARLES River Basin Boulevard is a most essential and urgent improvement. It cannot wait.

It deserves the sympathetic consideration and championship of President Arthur W. Coolidge of the Senate, Speaker of the House Frederick B. Willis and all other legislators who sincerely believe in accepting every recommendation designed to promote the general welfare and prosperity.

It must not be obstructed by parliamentary technicalities.

It must not be put over till another session, another year or another decade.

As Mayor Curley said in his recent plea to the Governor and Legislature, "The problem of vehicular traffic in Boston, which has long been surrounded with great difficulties, will inevitably become more acute unless steps are taken NOW to provide a solution."

"The General Court has, during the present session, taken steps to relieve one aspect of that problem by legislation authorizing the construction of a garage beneath the Common, and the provision for off-street parking."

"The provision for parking facilities, while of great assistance, IS NOT IN ITSELF SUFFICIENT TO PROVIDE ADEQUATE RELIEF."

"Additional steps must be taken with respect to MOVING vehicles, to the end of providing them with swifter and less congested routes to and from the city."

"THE PROJECT WHICH WILL MOST EFFICIENTLY, CONVENIENTLY AND ECONOMICALLY SATISFY THIS SECOND DEMAND IS THE CONSTRUCTION OF A ROADWAY IMMEDIATELY BETWEEN BEACON STREET AND THE CHARLES RIVER BASIN, JOINING EMBANKMENT ROAD WITH SOLDIERS' FIELD ROAD."

WE BELIEVE that senators and representatives who have shown a consistent and commendable desire to serve the people and to accept every suggestion calculated to benefit the people can be relied upon to initiate and pass legislation immediately for the construction by the Metropolitan District Commission of the Charles River Basin Boulevard which will lie almost wholly within the territory under control of the Commission.

Two birds within one nest;
Two hearts within one breast;
Two spirits in one fair,
Firm league of love and prayer,
Together bound for aye, together blest.
An ear that waits to catch
A hand upon the latch;
A step that hushes its sweet
rest to vain,
A world of care without,
A world of strife shut out,
A world of love shut in.

—DORA GREENWELL.
(Above is my favorite poem on the subject of married love.)

A SIDES—There have been women governors in several states. But has any major city ever had a woman mayor? Offhand, I cannot recall one. (Editor's note—Offhand we can recall in Portsmouth, N. H., Mrs. Mary Dondero, who is serving a second term and in Westfield, Mass., Mrs. Alice Burke's recent regime to which the citizens point with pride.) . . . A young woman of Manhattan who states she is an admirer of Peter Lawford says:

"Take these admirers of Sinatra. What makes them so dizzy? Why can't they express their admiration with hand-clapping and cheers? Why do they have to squeal and scream the way they do?"

WITH THE IDEA of women wearing "silly hats" I have no quarrel. They usually have some good reasons for doing so, but why do some women wear grim hats? For example, that type of chapeau that looks like a derby hat. I never voluntarily criticize my girl friend's hats. I don't care how many so-called "silly hats" she wears. But, so help me, if she shows up wearing one of those derby hats I will rip it from her lovely head and stamp on it. That is, if I obey my impulse.

"AS TO THE pronunciation of Sonja Henie's name," writes Olaf Waras. "Her father was a friend of mine for many years. When she was a baby Sonja often climbed upon my knee. Her name is pronounced, as that San Franciscan told you, to rhyme with penny."

DR. CHARLES STRUB, Pooh-bah of Santa Anita, First United States racetrack magnate to offer a $100,000 purse. Now $100,000 races have become so common that the good doctor is lked. He is thinking of making the 1947 Santa Anita

But comedians seem to figure in a lot of divorce cases. It could be their sense of humor is overdeveloped. That can be trying on a wife. The ex-Mrs. Murray is one of the country's top collectors of alimony. She gets $3100 a month.

AM ASKED what currently famous beauty I believe to be, insofar as figure is concerned, the nearest approach to Venus de Milo. Being a conscientious fellow I did a little checking on Venus. One authority states her measurements were as follows: bust—37 inches, waist—26 inches; around the hips—38 inches. I am not much of an expert on such measurements but would judge the aforementioned indicate that Venus was quite a big girl. I couldn't say offhand what beauty of today is most like Venus. I can't tell what a beauty's measurements are by just looking at her. And if I went around carrying a tape measure and measuring celebrated beauties people might talk.

A CALIFORNIAN tells me a mallard duck on his ranch took over the hatching of two chicken eggs. After the chickens were hatched, the duck took them to the nearby pond and tried to teach them to swim. When the rancher came upon the little group, the duck was trying to shove the little chickens into the water. The chickens were running around afraid and bewildered. Water was not for them. Very interesting. I have heard of a dog mothering a litter of kittens. I wonder if the canine tried to teach the kittens to wag their tails.

THE SHERLOCK HOLMES series of films is one of my favorites. But I don't care much for those produced in a modern background. I prefer to see Mr. Holmes and the good Doctor Watson do their sleuthing in the period of which Conan Doyle originally wrote. The late Victorian era; the age of bicycles and bustles.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Do you remember Bert Errol, the great English feminine impersonator? A—Only vaguely. That type of act never appealed to me much, except when handled in a comedy vein as by Bert Savoy of Savoy and Brown. Q—Somebody's fooling you. There is no such town in the United States as Rattle Run. A—My confidence in my clients is unshaken by your statement. I have one elegant stogie to bet that in Michigan there is a town named Rattle Run.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1946, Kluw Features Syndicate, Inc.
JAMES MONTGOMERY FLAGG missed the point in a publicity story out of Hollywood recently wherein he fearlessly denounced the bobby-sox cult of young American girls on the mere ground that they are untidy and unappetizing. Worse than that, these hysterical little brats are so many and so indecent in their public exhibitions of an emotion that seems to be sexual, that they call to mind no previous example of adolescent fanaticism.

For a time, at least, they were associated with the career of Frank Sinatra whom they pursued even to the extent of picketing hotels where he sang and resided and restaurants where he dined, prowling the back-stairs with a premature ingenuity and boldness that would have been a credit to hardened sneak-thieves, howling like animals at the sight of him and snatching at his garments.

Westbrook Pegler

THIS WAS NOT THE INNOCENT, goggle-eyed, restrained longing of the Bon-Bon set of 40 years ago when the matinee idol was worshipped from afar, nor the curious rapture of the Gerry flappers who idolized Geraldine Farrar in the latter years of her career. There was something distinctly nasty about their bearing and Sinatra, himself, seemed disgusted and angry one evening when he had wrestled his way through a pack of them to enter a restaurant and found that, in the scuffle, they had wrenched a button off his jacket and ripped a pocket.

I HAD THOUGHT, up to then, that this was a clique, artificially cultivated by his press agents, for there had been two similar cults of personal devotees identified with a trumpeter and a clarinetist on Broadway in the last 10 years and Mike Jacobs, the prizefight promoter, had regaled me with stories of his early career when he saluted audiences with hired enthusiasts to set off applause and save bad shows from the fate they well deserved.

But, if that had been the case, the exploit had gotten out of control for, on this night they scuffled not merely to touch the hem of his garments but to tear them off and, from the box-office point of view, they weren't worth a dollar a hundred. How they happened to know where he was dining and at what time so as to be on hand for their demonstration I have no idea and being very naive, didn't think to ask.

Flagg found the bobby-soxer offensive for good enough reasons, being her naked, meaty legs, her soiled male undershirt and general sloppiness, but perhaps, at his age, he turns in early and has never had occasion to wonder how children in the throes of some strange hysteria could remain out long after midnight in packs like coyotes, hanging around the Waldorf through some irresistible attraction, sneaking into the lobbies and upstairs unknown to the public and brazenly trying to crash the elevators. What did they want, anyway, and did they know themselves?

ILL-FAVORED, ILL-MANNERED, unrestrained by modesty or pride and seemingly strangers to one another but all victims of the same influence, they certainly were no complement to any hero of their unsightly disturbance and should have been slapped and put to bed.

On one occasion, the newspapers and police estimated that more than 20,000 of them turned out to block traffic and moan and whine in a demonstration vaguely disturbing and beyond understanding. That sort of thing is not the conduct of innocent young girlhood and yet it had to be assumed that each of these children had some sort of home and most of them parents who either didn't realize how troubled they were or hadn't the decency, themselves, to keep them off the streets and under control.

OF LATE, I OBSERVE through the more or less Communist wing of the press and the pamphlet propaganda, Sinatra had adopted another approach to youth, preaching against prejudice and the use of such words as wop, dago and spick. That is nice of him, to be sure, although he seems to exaggerate the significance of such terms and thus to accentuate rather than abate awareness of the differences between blood-strains, for which the Communists would thank him.

However, he serves youth and his country nicely if, by this adoption of a new character, he is able to rebuke and disperse the bobby-sox cult and rid the streets at night of a horde of wayward girls.

"Gee, Pop, when are we gonna be able to pay the second installment on our pre-fabricated house?"

Eliminated—Under the plans for construction of the river drive, Back Street, an unpaved alley running back of the homes on Beacon St., would be eliminated. This street with its uncounted puddles, rubbish barrels and piles of litter is considered one of the most neglected streets in the state.

No More of This—Here is a car moving cautiously over a large bump, noses down into a puddle while going along Back Street. Construction of the riverside drive to do away with this unpaved alley, would cost about $6,500,000 and would be one of the most worthwhile projects authorized by the General Court.

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, June 10—Another of those six-digit (over $100,000 to you and me) purchases becoming as common in Hollywood as a sack on Vine st., is "Night and the City" just acquired by smart agent Charles Feldman for the proverbial cool hundred grand. Already in eleventh spot on the national best seller list, Gerald Kersh's novel is a shocker revolving around two persons caught in the fever of London night life. It is really an expose of the racketeers of the cabarets and clip joints who prey on the "suckers" determined to have gaily at any cost.

Howard Dietz

But the point that makes Charlie's deal of special interest is that the picture will be filmed part in Hollywood and part in London with a cast of British and American names. Jacques Tourneur has already been assigned the direction, William Kozlenko is writing the screen play and Howard Dietz is interested in doing it as a Broadway show.

WE ARE really in the big money brackets this morning, kiddies. Here's another one to rattle Hollywood's cash registers. Paul Short, who controls the rights to Frances Parkinson Keyes' novels, is lumping her best sellers including "Crescent Carnival," "Also The Hills," "All That Glitters" and the recent "River Road" into a little parcel with a $300,000 price tag attached. Jules Levee's offer of $100,000 for "River Road" alone has been turned down. So are bids from Edward Small, Walter Wanger and William Fox. They are acquiring the group for $250,000. At present, Mrs. Keyes is in France on a special assignment for the French government but she is preparing two more novels. I should think so!

GUESS WHO'S leading the parade, right up there in top spot for "Jiggs" in "Bringing Up Father"? Our old friend, and Mickey Rooney's Pa—Joe Yule. Over the week-end he makes the test that will decide the issue and I don't think it will hurt Joe's feelings to say that he and eggs have a lot in common—their faces. For the past six months or so, Mickey's dad has been on dutch leave from burlesque, taking it easy and playing small roles in MGM movies now and then. Barney Gerard, who is producing "Bringing Up Father" used to work in burlesque with Joe.

WHEN YOU say it's a movie for Maureen O'Hara, you just know it's in Technicolor. So with that definitely established, we can go on to say that the queen of color film has "Out of All Tunes" coming up at RKO. This doesn't necessarily mean it is her next picture; 20th also has dibs on Maureen, but it's her next at RKO. Original story by Wanda Tuckoch and Leonard Praskins is a spiritual love story along the lines of the old favorite, "Smilin' Through" and based on the premise that true lovers cannot be separated through the ages.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: When Eleanor Powell leaves next week for Chicago to fulfill an engagement at the Chez Paree I suppose talk will start all over again that she and Glenn Ford are rifling. I've been in these parts too long to stick my neck out about any marriage. They deny trouble one day and divorce the next in Hollywood. But certainly Glenn has been honest in saying that while he and Ellie had a few problems to iron out when he first came back from the service—they were no more serious than those of other couples. They are devoted to their son and that's important. When Eleanor returns from Chi, she goes into the Marilyn Miller role in the local revival of "Rosalee" on the stage.

Lana Turner is blistering—not mad—sunburned. She's really blistered after a trip back from Palm Springs with the car top down and with Lana, such a deep burn is serious. Like Jean Harlow, she's allergic to the sun. Now I've heard everything in the line of strikes—the 10 movie jockeys working on "My Brother Who Talks to Horses" at MGM walked out for more money and held up production a day until the "strike" was arbitrated by Central Casting.

HOLLYWOOD IN SHORTS—Louella's wife, Berthe, arrives in New York from Paris tomorrow because he was sooooo lonesome without her in Hollywood. He's David Selznick's answer to Charles Boyer; the New York stage offers tossed in Jennifer Jones' lap are making her dizzy. But she's still sticking to her guns to do summer stock because she says all she wants is more stage experience and not money or glory. Lucky her. Pardon me for being an old snoot—but Ian McDonald's real name is Olva W. Pippe and after his cliche in "Ramrod" he decided that a Pippe by some other name would sound sweeter.

Jennifer Jones

It is no longer possible for me to continue writing Louella's column day by day without giving credit where credit is very much due. I mean to Lop's leg man—the one and only Neil Rau. There is nothing that goes on in Hollywood that Neil doesn't know. He has the trust and admiration of everyone. Neil is not only a great reporter covering the studios—he's a great guy and I wouldn't want to be sitting in this spot without him behind me.

overlarded with French. Among the very few questions she was able to make us understand how were we spending our time in Paris.

"Mrs. Byrnes replied that we wives went everywhere alone because our husbands were otherwise engaged. She added:

"Our husbands go their way and we go ours."

"We thought nothing more about the interview until the next day when our husbands descended upon us with blood in their eyes. It seems the French reporter, with her sketchy knowledge of English, had conceived a wrong impression.

"Any way she had written in the paper that the American delegates and their wives had had a falling out and were all living apart!"

BEFORE MANUEL ROXAS, president-elect of the Philippines, left Washington, he went to hear Miss Dorothy Sharp who sings hilariously. Miss Shay told General Roxas she would like to present him with a little brown jug which had been given by some hillbillies in Tennessee.

General Roxas was able to follow the neat little presentation speech fairly well but when the damsel got to the part about the hillbillies he looked puzzled. His aide, Col. Nieto, explained, whereupon the general exclaimed:

"Oh, we have them too, but they are called hukbalahaps—and I would like to put some of them in a jug!"

Seems these hukbalahaps are bad actors and guerrillas.

Boston After Dark

MONDAY MUSINGS: A performance that will not appear in the record books was Sunday evening by Mickey (Himself) Harris, winningest southpaw of the all-conquering Red Sox... An audience of less than 200—as compared with the 33,000 who saw Mickey pitch a handsome first game, beat the Tigers, 7-1—witnessed the young fork-baller in action last night. That smaller audience, however, was more enthusiastic than the horde which cheered Mickey at the ball park earlier in the day. They were wounded veterans from hospitals of this area who had attended the "Holy Hour for Men" at Braves Field while Harris and his mates were beating the Tigers.

MICKY HARRIS was the only member of the Red Sox to accept an invitation to dine with the wounded sailors, soldiers and marines at the Copley Square Hotel, as guests of the management. This, be it understood, is no criticism of his teammates... They all could be excused—those high-flying Red Sox—from attempting any extra-curricular activities after their energetic and hard-working conquest of the Detroit ball club... Just running around the bases (33 times in two days) was exertion enough to earn them a Sunday night of rest... And Mickey himself could have pleaded exhaustion, and it would have been understood.

YOUNG MR. HARRIS preferred to put in an appearance... He worked hard crawling his autograph on leg, arm and shoulder-casts and shaking hands with a crowd of young Americans who wore the uniform Mickey himself wore until recently.

THEN WITH FINE POISE Mickey talked to the veterans... Benjamin V. Drohan, who is about to embark again for Japan with a USO troupe, says he has a plan for Fitcher Harris, to keep him busy between seasons... "Why, the lad is a comic," says B. V. D. "I'll take him with my troupe anytime. I've heard professionals do a much worse job than Mickey, and I've never heard a ball player do a better job of entertaining."

Mickey told four stories—all on his favorite subject, baseball, and all, as could be expected, completely "clean"... The wounded kids could not get enough of "Himself," as the scribes have dubbed this confident young man from Queens, N. Y.... No, it won't show in the record-books, that second Sunday appearance in public of Mickey, Harris of the Red Sox... But the so-called national game, in a somewhat critical year, found itself last night with a real ambassador of good will to a large group of national heroes.

WHAT A CHANGE six years make. It was just that long ago that the Red Sox calmly announced that Mickey (himself) was being sent to Scranton in the Eastern League. He didn't fit into the Red Sox plans, it was stated. But there was one who thought highly of Mickey after seeing him in action on radio from the South. He was Umpire Emmett "Red" Ormsby, who told Sports Writer Herb Finnegan: "Someone is making a mistake. Harris will be around for 15 years and he'll rank with the Groves, Fennocks and Platters before he's through." Guess "Red" was right.

Local society is agog over the question of whether Gloria Vanderbilt Stokowski will attend this week's wedding of the maestro's daughter, Sonya. ACADEMY AWARD winner Katina Paxinou, who started her American film saga with such a loud bang, will leave on a tour note (the studios no longer are interested) and pick up her career in England... SENATOR VANDENBERG of Michigan, who was voted the man in his class most likely to look like a senator, was mooning over a very attractive doll in the Shoreham the other evening. The setting was conducive to romance because Barnee and his band were bearing out a bucket of sentimental music. Barnee himself was looking dreamy, which is quite a sight, and often confused by strangers with extreme astigmatism.

Home Garden Forum

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head of the Vegetable Garden, Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School.

Q—How often should a garden be cultivated?

A—This depends to some extent on the crops in mind and weather conditions. In most cases it is not necessary to cultivate more than once a week unless rains have packed the soil.

Q—Do blueberries need fertilizer?

A—Blueberries respond to heavy applications of organic materials such as peat moss or leaf mold. After plants become established it is well to feed them once a year with a complete fertilizer.

Q—How can an old lilac bush be killed out? We have cut it down, but it continues to sprout.

A—This is a stubborn plant to kill. I would suggest digging out the main root and then cutting out the young shoots as they appear. This may take some time, but is the only way.

Q—Should apple trees be sprayed after the fruit has formed?

A—Yes. It is necessary to spray about 4 or 5 times to insure good fruit.

Q—When cutting asparagus I noticed some small black eggs attached to the stalk. What insect is laying them?

A—These are the eggs of the asparagus beetle. Keep beds cut clean to avoid spread of insect and dust old plants to kill larvae.

Two Lynn Men Held In Restaurant Death

Two Lynn men pleaded not guilty to manslaughter resulting from the death of Arthur K. Hill, 31, Bay View ave., Lynn, who died after being beaten, police said, while aiding a woman during a family quarrel.

Walter R. Dyer, 27, Baldwin st., and Edward A. "Buster" Nadeau, 30, Silsbee st., were arraigned in Lynn District Court before Judge Rees. He continued their cases to June 19 and ordered $2500 bail for each.

Police, now searching for Hill's wife, said Dyer and his wife, Irene, were quarreling outside a Blake st. restaurant and Hill left the restaurant, where he was eating, to defend the woman.

Oberon-Bey Due At Keith Mem

Universal's "Night In Paradise," starring Merle Oberon and Turhan Bey, is scheduled to open on Keith Memorial screen Wednesday.

The Ernest Pascal screen play, based on Emmet Lavery's adaptation of the novel, "Feather," by George S. Hillman, has been given a lavish Technicolor production.

Bey is cast as Aesop, the fable-maker, and Miss Oberon, as a Persian princess betrothed to Croesus. Kings, wicked chancellors, magicians, beauties in scarves parade through the fantastic romance story.

It's not a game of peek-a-boo! They're just hiding from an jealous-hearted Pullman conductor, will an allegory for train-crashers! Can three live as cheaply as one—and get away with it? The Marlowe answer's in Merry in Merry, a romantic funfest, "Without Reservations," starring Claudette Colbert, John Wayne, and Don De Fore is in it, too, coming soon at the RKO Boston Theatre with big stage show headed by Dick Stabile and his orchestra, Ann Triola, Mischa Auer and others.

How to Keep Your Skin Satinized Try These Recipes Of Serving Liver

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

HAVE YOU a broad-daylight or after-dark complexion? Or, like charming Monogram Star Belita... can you lift your face to the high heavens for the world to see and admire because its complexion can stand the severest kind of scrutiny... even when the sun is strong? If you have an inferior facial skin... roughened with enlarged pores... let an unusual preparation... an old and meals astringent... satinize it into silky smoothness.

New Baby Turns Hubby Into a Jealous Maniac

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

JEALOUSY loves to masquerade. That's why it is so often successful. So many, and so effective, are the disguises it puts on that it's often difficult to recognize it for what it really is.

Sometimes, indeed, it can make itself so colorful, and so dramatic, that its victim is fooled into being proud of inspiring so interesting an emotion. That's why many a wife takes pride in boasting that her husband is so devoted he can't bear to have her out of his sight when, if she saw beneath the disguise, she'd realize it was actually the distrustful green eyes of jealousy with which he was watching her.

"A Patient Wife," distressed, bewildered and patient, writes that she was married 20 years ago, after graduating from college. After 18 years of perfect happiness things changed abruptly. The coming of a baby was responsible.

The husband became a different man. He "ranted, fumed and cursed," refused to come near her at the time of the baby's birth and did not even send a message of any kind. And ever since he has made her life "a veritable hell," ignoring her and the baby alike, refusing to talk to her when he is home, and often leaving her alone in the evening, with no explanation.

Since the baby is a happy, healthy child, it cannot be any trouble she gives that makes the father behave so badly, and since his career seems to be going unusually well, there is apparently nothing there to account for his moroseness.

Hence, unless there is some deep-seated illness whose physical symptoms have not yet become apparent, there seems nothing to believe but that this grown man is jealous of his own baby.

Until the baby came, this man was his wife's whole world.

30—Boston American, June 10

NO, NO, NO, it isn't true... that if a girl has a bad complexion she's stuck with it. Not unless she's a Janie-come-lately type of gal who doesn't care if it is on the shy side. But is there a girl around who wants to live with a face that's anything short of perfection in her... or anybody else's... eyes? In these days?

If nothing else... at least the mirror should do valiant duty in haunting and taunting her into action every time she takes a look at her inferior complexion... rough and tough with enlarged pores.

Smooth your own hand over your face. Is your complexion like chiffon to the touch? And if it is... don't you inwardly beam with pride and joy? Then, just imagine how thrilling it is when your "fella" glides his hand over your face as he cups it in his strong hands... and finds it gardenia firm and fine. Aren't you justly proud?

Let's cut that scene for a moment and reflect how easily it could be spoiled. If that complexion is as rough as an emery board... can't you see the disillusionment reflected in his eyes? True... it may be blemish-free... but if it is rough and if it has enlarged pores... such a complexion can't stand the scrutiny of a close-up. And we don't care how much junk you've covered it up with... the camouflage won't help.

Because every Big Moment adores facial loveliness... Naturally a gal doesn't want to wait a lifetime for complexion improvement. Constant use of astringents might, in time, contract and tighten the pores... but they might also leave the skin dry to the touch.

But we have the dish which such a complexion desperately needs. It is an unusual preparation... an oil and meals astringent... with the powerful ability of not only reducing those enlarged pores to a minimum... but with the added force of satinizing the skin at the same time... making the skin soft and silky.

For the name of this skin satinizing and pore refining oil and meals astringent, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBERTY 4000, every day except Sunday, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Real Summer Beret

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THE GIRL who loves a beret has always been out of luck in hot weather, because this kind of hat always comes in felt which lays heavy on your head in summer. This summer, with light and airy Swiss straw back in circulation you can have your darling beret made of one of these. They are very nice to look at as well as comfortable to wear. Miss Dulin has sketched one of the new Swiss straw berets for you to see.

This model is made of white lacy straw and is the kind of beret most girls prefer, with a bumper crown. It has a black moire ribbon band and bow and the front of the ribbon is embroidered lightly in pearls and sequins. Model from Warner Bros.

Soup-Eating Technique

To settle an argument in our family, will you please answer this question: when eating soup should one bring the spoon toward the front or back of the soup-plate?

E. D. L. These are the things to remember in soup-eating technique: (1) do not fill the spoon more than about half full; (2) dip the spoon away from you, beginning fairly near the outer edge of the plate; (3) sip from the side of the spoon; and (4) sip noiselessly.

FOR THE GRECIAN goddess look... easily achieved by Universal Star Yvonne De Carlo... here is a stunning white jersey Cal Tex bathing suit... completely backless and with full skirt... smartly complement with Grecian-type sandals and a cherry-trimmed Dache net for the hair. The banded midriff separating the full bodice and the dirndl-like skirt accents the waistline smartly... R. M.

Try These Recipes Of Serving Liver

By MARTHA LEE

Household Editor

HOW LONG SINCE YOU TRIED a new way of serving liver? If you're keeping up with the experts, you probably serve liver once a week, or at least every other week, for its super-extraordinary nutritional value. And no matter how well you like a food, it's a cinch you wouldn't want to eat it that often and always have it served the same way.

Here is a suggestion that may be new to you; yet it is utterly simple, and very likely you have fixed other meats the same way. The idea is to roll slices of liver around some bread dressing. Beef liver is a good choice for this dish. The stuffed rolls are then braised to a rich brown tenderness.

Because the meat rolls can be finished in a slow oven, you have an opportunity to plan an even meal.

MENU

Stuffed Liver Rolls
Browned Potatoes
Cauliflower Baked in Milk
Sliced Tomatoes on Leaf Lettuce
Baked Rhubarb Sauce
Oatmeal Cookies

STUFFED LIVER ROLLS

1½ lbs. beef liver, cut in ¼-inch slices
Bread dressing (about 3 cups)
Flour for dredging
Salt and pepper
3 tbsp. bacon drippings
¼ cup water

Spread each slice of liver with bread dressing. Roll and fasten with toothpicks. Dredge rolls with flour seasoned with salt and pepper. Brown slowly, all over, in hot bacon drippings. Add water, cover pan closely, and place in slow oven (300 deg. F.). Bake about 45 minutes, or until tender.

The potatoes may be cooked in the same pan with the meat, providing the pan is large enough. Break the head of cauliflower into flowerets (not too small) and put them into an oiled baking dish. Pour a small amount of scalding hot milk over them, sprinkle with grated cheese, cover and bake. The cover may be removed during the last 10 or 15 minutes of cooking, if you want the cheese to get a little brown.

BAKED RHUBARB SAUCE

Some people think that rhubarb is sweeter when it is baked slowly, than when it's cooked on the top of the range. Whether or not you are of that opinion, you'll agree this is an effortless way to cook it.

Simply put the cut-up fruit in a heavy, oiled baking dish (earthenware is excellent). Sprinkle sugar between layers of the fruit, and over the top; dot with a little butter or margarine, and sprinkle with cinnamon or grated lemon or orange rind. Honey or syrup may replace part of the sugar, but the sauce will be somewhat thinner.

OATMEAL COOKIES

1-3 cup shortening
1-3 cup sugar
1 egg
½ cup molasses
1 cup sifted flour
2 tsp. allspice
½ tsp. nutmeg
¼ tsp. ground cloves
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. baking powder
1½ cups quick cooking oatmeal
1 cup grated carrots
1 tsp. grated orange rind
½ cup raisins (optional)
Mix shortening and sugar. Mix egg and molasses and add to first mixture. Sift dry ingredients and stir in oatmeal. Add to molasses mixture. Stir in carrots and grated orange rind. Drop by teaspoonsful on a greased baking sheet; top each with a raisin and bake in a moderately hot oven (375 deg. F.) 12 to 15 minutes. Makes 4 to 5 dozen cookies, depending upon their size.

Losing A Chance to Get More Soap?

Steady there, Mrs. America. We're not kidding. Last month, women all over the country threw away enough used fats to make over twenty million big boxes of soap powder.

Maybe some women think they don't need to save used fats any longer. Perhaps others are doing half a job...or saving only now and then.

THE TRUTH IS: there won't be more soap until your country's industrial fat supply is much increased.

By turning in every drop of used fats, you'll help bring back more soaps sooner. You use soap every day, so save used fats every day. One pound helps make about two pounds of needed soaps...gets you 4¢ a pound from your butcher.

Where there's fat—there's soap

Smart Set Sally Sears' Wedding

By BETTY ALDEN

WEARING THE LOVELY Parisian wedding gown in which her sister was married four years ago Saturday, Sally Sears, petite and blonde society songstress and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Sears of Hamilton, was married yesterday afternoon to Richard Hunter Dulaney Randolph of Virginia's famous Randolph family. Rev. Wm. Stride married them in Christ Church, Hamilton.

Sally's gown of white satin was lavishly embroidered with seed pearls. Her tulle veil was appliqued with medallions of iridescent sequins her mother bought in Paris some years ago and her small crown-shaped headdress was also of sequins. She carried white orchids.

Her attendants all wore colorful costumes of yellow embroidered organdie with larkspur blue hem bands and bouquets of shaded blue larkspur. They were her sister, Mrs. Benjamin O. Gardiner; Lucy Cochrane, one of Boston's outstanding glamour girls; Jean Cochrane, Mrs. William Gabel, Mrs. Joseph Fardy, Averell Penn Smith and Elizabeth Hubbard of Middleburg, Va., cousin of the bride.

Pre-Match Buildup of Joe Louis vs Billy Conn

By AUST LAKE

NEW YORK, June 10—Is it a thumbnail summary of Joe Louis' debits and credits for his business fight with Billy Conn—the last big-name championship for some years to come. For regardless of who wins this one there isn't another heavy-weight pugilist in sight to give either man much trouble. Louis is the last of the titans.

Aust Lake

So here's the pillars of wisdom on the flaws and asse of the fighters:

EXPERIENCE—Even as a youth fresh from the amateur laboratory, Louis was ring-wise beyond his years. He has fought physical giant like Primo Carnera, and unorthodox circus oddities like Tony Galento, and technicians like Jimmy Braddock, Max Schmeling, Jack Sharkey, Bob Pastor, and clowns like Max Baer and a swarm of heterogeneous characters of all sizes, shapes and skills. No champion in ring history ever fought so often or remained so close to physical par. Since beating Braddock he has defended his title 22 times. He's far ahead of Conn as a tactician.

And whenever Louis fought any man the second time he showed himself vastly improved—as in the case with Schmeling, Pastor, Godoy, Brown. As a master of boxing style he has studied his opponents with the precocity of a Phi Beta Kappa scholar. He rarely makes the same mistake twice.

Louis Slow to Condition

AGE—LOUIS IS 32, or four years beyond the average peak of a fighter's prime when his muscular rubber, electric impulses, innate savagery and natural put together at its best. Beyond 28 nature usually begins to spread slowing layers of snot over the muscles and relax the tautness of nerves and curb the tempestuousness of youth.

But Conn is just 28, the pinnacle age when he can afford to be more spendthrift with his energies. Billy has a long advantage there.

PRE-MATCH TRAINING—Louis has been displaying his usual inconsistencies—sluggish one day and sharp the next. He has been generously tagged by his sparring partners, displaying a strange carelessness in taking jolts from the big training pillows. But Conn is said to be rapier sharp, finely drawn, at fighting weight and ready to battle to night.

This carries a familiar pre-match refrain in most of Louis' conditioning. For he has always been slow to take fighting shape and an easy target for his punishment. He performs mechanically, never shows enthusiasm or disgust or emotion of any kind. And though conscientious about his chores he admits his distaste for the drudge of road work, shadow boxing, bag punching, rope skipping and the monotony of routine. But he is always best as a competitor, when the chips are up. So Louis' training display has never been a true criterion of his reflexes, mental attitude or stamina.

MENTAL ATTITUDE—Louis is nerveless, cold and super serious. He has taken his title as a spiritual responsibility, feeling that he is a racial symbol. He, more than any fighter of our time excepting Jack Dempsey, has the true "killer instinct," the jungle ferocity of a leopard.

But the novelty of being champion has faded. He is no longer the ambitious, hungry, underprivileged youngster who earned a meager living sweeping factory floors and working as an odd-bit fighter up the ladder to riches and fame. Some of his driving incentive has gone. His fights have earned a total of $2,118,628, of which he must have taken $750,000. He is secure!

But Conn is eager, consumed with ambition to be the champion, never in the big money, and therefore impelled with a force that will make him doubly dangerous. Inclined to be a rattled, he is curbing his natural impetuosity, love of nonsense and taking June 19 as his life's opportunity. Ambition is on his side and no small factor.

Louis Can Be Hit!

TECHNICALITY—The writer has seen Joe Louis floored four times and predicts that Conn will land flush shockers more than once during the coming fight if he closes in. Schmeling knocked Louis down in the first collision and finally paralyzed him in the 12th round after axing him with repetitious slugs that would have killed an ordinary fighter. Braddock floored him at Chicago. Tony Galento did it again with a terrific wild haymaker. And Buddy Baer, Max's elephantine brother, did it last.

But Braddock didn't have enough "Umpir" left in his arm. Galento was too stupid to follow up his advantage and Buddy stood off and viewed the spectacle of Louis sprawling on his hands as an accident. I have always felt that in these instances fortune was kind to Joe in not having his vis-a-vis of the moment a strong, showy, ring-wise brawler. Such a man would have kept the mists in his brain and never let him recover.

Conn will hit Louis if he decides to stand in and mix. But Conn is talking of boxing him at a distance, apparently in the hope of winning on points. His advisers, Manny Solomon, chief trainer, George Nicholson, head sparring partner and Larry Amador, his second, want him to wear Louis down with a gat dance during the early stages and then spend his powder in late rounds. That tactic is not likely to work, since Joe isn't the stampeding kind. Billy's best chance is to slug Louis repeatedly and take the risk of being stung in return. The two most successful fighters in earlier Louis bouts, Schmeling and Tommy Farr, stood in and fought. The cautious fighters never survived to have their points awarded.

So the summation gives Louis what little pre-match edge there is. He has always been an exception to the ring rule and a man endowed lavishly by nature with the fighter's tools. In the study which this writer is about to make of the last lack of polish in both fight camps there may be reasons to alter his opinion. Until then he admits prejudice on the side of Louis to be hailed as the "winnah and still champion." I reserve the right to change my mind.

Ted Crowns Him

Ted Williams' second game homer was a crowning blow in more ways than one. It was Ted's greatest Boston homer and it crowned one Joseph A. Boucher of Albany, N. Y., sitting in the right field bleachers right through his straw lid. Boucher took the conning but he didn't get the ball. It bounded high into the hands of another fan.

Detroit Tigers Concede Flag to Rampaging Sox

By HUCK HINNEGAN

What matter that Hank Greenberg jammed with Dizzy Trout in the Detroit dug-out while the Tigers were dropping two (7-1 and 11-6) to the Red Sox in their Sunday double-header at Fenway Park? The Sox will have every club in the league fighting among themselves if they continue their maddening pace.

Consider this: Cronin's boys whipped the world's champions eight times in nine starts this campaign. They've handed Hal Newhouse his only two defeats. They've treated Newhouse and "Cat" Metkovich ers whereas in the "good old days" the Tigers' 1-2 punch was so porific to our boys.

Do you wonder that Greenberg hopped on Trout after Metkovich's two-run homer gave the Sox a 3-0 lead and salted the decision in the opener? Metko's only a .250 hitter. He's not supposed to mace home runs off one of Trout's reputation. So Hank climbed on Dizzy for making a bad pitch, and Dizzy climbed back. Doc Cramer acted as peacemaker. The scuffle didn't last long.

Those things happen frequently when the "rub of the green" goes against a team. Remember Werber and Dahlgren? So here are the Tigers, mangled by injuries, 14½ games behind the Sox. Their tempo is frayed. Even Joe Louis admitted today the Tigers had no chance to repeat and Joe is the Tigers' staunchest booster. The Tigers admitted as much on the Sox first trip West. They actually conceded the flag to the Sox on a trip. All they asked was: "Why don't the Sox double-dog their stands? The players won't get much dough from this park."

Consider this: The Sox have won 39 games, lost only nine. They have 106 games to play. Their percentage is .813, phenomenal. Nobody expects them to continue that pace. It never happened before. But nobody expects them to slip to a .500 pace either, and yet if they should they'd wind up the season with 92 victories, nearly enough to win the pennant.

Consider this: Brooklyn has won 30, 17 for .638. That has been good enough to lead the N. L. by a three-game margin over the Cardinals. Now the Yankees have won 33, 19 for .635, only three points behind the Dodgers' pace, yet find themselves trailing the Red Sox by eight full games.

Surprise! It is that they had courage enough to come back and whip the Indians in the second game of Sunday's double-header after dropping a full game to the Sox by losing the first game.

"Let the Sox have a bad week, the Yanks a good week and the picture will change completely," said Steve O'Neill before he left town. "I saw the Browns come East in '44 with a seven-game lead, yet they had to take four games from the Yanks the last week of the season to cop the flag by a single game. The race is young yet."

It won't be young long, as the above figures prove, because the Sox seem to be getting better with each passing week. On their first home stand against the western clubs they won 10 games without defeat. Their record on the current stand is a clean slate against the western clubs and an overall mark of 11-won, 1-lost, 1-tied, the only defeat coming from the Yanks. The Yanks, in fact, are the only club who have beaten the Sox more than once (3) this season. The Sox have yet to drop a series—even to the Yanks.

field bleachers. That was the ball game, the cause of the Greenberg-Trout jam, and the 3-4-5-6 boys (Williams, Doerr, York and DiMaggio) had nothing to do with it. That's what makes the Sox so remarkable. Every guy on the club can hit a home run, does at the slightest provocation. The victory gave southpaw Harris his ninth win of the season against one defeat, and he moved ahead of Newhouse (9-2) in the won-lost column.

Butland vs. Gromek

Cleveland's Indians, who helped the Red Sox widen their A. L. lead to eight games by taking two of three from the Yanks over the week-end, opened a three-game series any day. He has slowed up terribly, isn't hitting within 75 points of his prewar pace, finds first base more wearing than left field, has oodles of money . . . George Kell came down with a Charley horse, so Jimmy Outlaw played third base for the Tigers . . . Pesky was all over the infield again, was charged with an error when he dropped a fly ball in York's territory. The wind was high, the sky higher and even DiMaggio and Cramer had trouble judging wind-driven flies . . . Doerr is wearing sun-glasses but without much success. "I can't see with them or without them," he exaggerated. Best pivot on a double play of the Fenway season was contributed by Doerr on Greenberg's smash to Pesky in the first game. Pesky did well to get one on the play while Doerr's completion was uncanny. . . . "Best second baseman in this league," said Tommy Bridges. "Yes, and I know Gordon is in the same league," added the Detroit pitcher. "Nobody can improve on Doerr's fielding, and he outbats Gordon every year. Where's the argument?" Bridges still maintains Charlie Gehring was better than Doerr. Doerr and Gordon . . . Bridges needs six more games to reach the 200 mark but doubts he'll get them. "Not in a relief role," he said . . .

FINNEGAN.

DUGOUT GOINGS: Before the Sunday double-header, Wakefield and Bloodworth of the Tigers said to Trout: "Pitch overhand. It's impossible to see the ball coming out of the white shirts in the bleachers. There will be few runs scored today." Whereupon the Sox got seven runs in the first game, 11 in the second. And six home runs were made, two by Williams, one each by Metkovich, DiMaggio, Greenberg and Wakefield. Williams' home run off Hutchinson was acclaimed the longest ever hit in Fenway Park. It went 30 rows up in the bleachers above the Sox bullpen. But old-timers say both Jimmie Fox and Hank Greenberg have hit longer home runs at Fenway. "I'll bet one over the right field roof yet," Williams said. If the wind is with him again, who can say he won't do it? . . . "Six home runs," mused Cronin. "I suppose everybody will say 'That left field fence!'" Yet everyone of the six, even Dom DiMaggio's, was hit right or right center.

Detroit writers expect Greenberg to toss in the towel most

Billy Conn Tens How Louis Knocked Him Out

By JACK CONWAY

GREENWOOD LAKE, N. Y., June 9.—Billy Conn, who will battle for Joe Louis' world's heavyweight championship at the Yankee Stadium, New York, on June 19, today cleared up the controversy over just how he was knocked out in his last bout with the "Brown Bomber" in an exclusive interview with this writer.

Billy Conn hit as hard in my life.

"I am not so unwise as to claim Louis is not a great hitter. I think he will stop any opponent he can sock on the chin with his best Sunday punch. He will do it to me again if I permit my chin to linger in the way of one of his broadsides. You may be certain I shall take good care of my chin this time so that I'll be around to get the decision at the end of 15 rounds.

"I may be lucky enough to knock Louis out, but I am not planning on doing so. It is my plan to win on points at the end of 15 rounds. This is why I have surrounded myself with top sparring partners and am building up for speed."

I mentioned to Conn that Jack Dempsey declared the champion was a definite weakness to punches landed on any part of the head as well as on the jaw.

"DEMPSEY IS right," said Conn. "This has been indicated in a number of Louis' bouts. His first bout with Max Schmeling and his tussle with Tony Galento proved this. Joe Jacobs, who used to manage Galento, told me that Tony tired after he knocked Louis down. Galento's wind was not of the best as a result of an attack of pneumonia. When Tony tried to follow up his advantage, he blew up and was knocked out himself."

Baffled by Louis

SOL GOLD, adviser to Conn and to Manager Johnny Ray, told me he was confused by the way Louis has been training.

"Louis has been slow, according to all of the boxing experts and trainers who have seen him in action," said Gold. "He has also taken considerable time off from his training. I am frank in saying the champion has me in confusion. In charge of his own training, Louis is doing things differently than when Jack Blackburn and John Roxborough directed his training program. Joe is today his own boss at Pompton Lake, and he has his own ideas as to how he should condition himself for Conn."

"Billy is so fast I do not see how the flat-footed Louis will ever be able to catch up with him."

"I think Billy realizes it would be silly for him to try to punch it out with Louis. Conn has skill and speed, and if he does not lose his head, and I do not believe he will, he will give the 'Brown Bomber' a boxing lesson."

Louis and Conn have entered the final stages of their training. Conn is ready to battle, and all he will have to do is to polish up on his boxing a bit. He will have to let down in his training or he will drop too much weight and possibly go stale. Billy has been weighing around 182 pounds, but he will probably be as low as 180 pounds when he enters the ring. This will only be six pounds heavier than when he lost to Louis five years ago.

The warm weather will enable Louis to take off weight. Joe scaled 212 pounds, and he would like to be around 208 pounds when he opens fire on Conn.

Mike Jacobs told me the advance ticket sale has hit the $1,900,000 mark and that he is confident the final box office score will be close to $3,000,000 which will shatter the $2,600,000 mark of the second Dempsey-Tunney bout at Chicago.

DILBOY BOUTS START

Amateur boxing will return to a weekly schedule starting Wednesday night, June 26, at Dilboy Field, Somerville, when the George Dilboy Post, V. F. W., will conduct the first of its programs under the capable direction of Fred Russo, former post commander.

Competition will be in the 118, 126, 135, 147, 160, 175 and heavyweight classes. Entries may be filed with Fred Russo, 371 Summer st., Somerville.

English to Tackle Durfee in Opener

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Champion of the international conference, Boston English High School—a team that operates at its best under pressure—will open the Eastern State baseball tournament at Braves Field tomorrow afternoon against Durfee High in the first half of the trial runs in the Schoolboys' Ass'n championship—starting at 2 p. m.

The Blue and Blue will share the spotlight with Somerville, Greater Boston League titlist, against Keith Academy, representing the two divisions of the Catholic circuit.

Coach Bernie Kilroy, hitting the title play in his first year at the helm, has all the confidence in the world that his club will come through. They've shown they can fight their way back, as they did after B. C. High tied up their play-off game (2-2) last week. They've a clever "down the middle" combination and in sophomore Win Briggs, they have a cool operator on the mound for this opener.

Briggs has an undefeated record of seven straight victories this season in the English 15-1 overall mark. He was the clutch moundman against the Eagles. He'll carry the pitching assignment, intending to pass it on Phil "No-Hit" Cohen for the semi-final rounds on Thursday at Fenway Park.

All Durfee of Fall River has chalked up an undefeated record in this state, losing only one game and that against Hope at High of Providence. The Fall River club qualified for the play by exploding against Brockton Saturday in a wild (10-3) game at Taunton.

Newton, winner of the Suburban league crown, was to move en masse to Russell Field, Cambridge, this afternoon to scout its Wednesday opponent. Coach Jeff Jones' club will be lining up against the winner of the Marblehead-Hudson play-off there. . . incidentally, the Orange and Black outfit will rate favoritism in the tourney.

The fourth contest is still very much up in the air. . . Wakefield, through virtue of its 10-inning 1-0 triumph over Stoneham, has slipped into a tie with Belmont in the Middlesex league. . . as a result, the pair will play it off today at Victory Field, Watertown, with the winner to take its place in the second half of the Tuesday doubleheader.

Then, there's still the Essex County representative to be accounted for. . . Lawrence, in splitting a twin-bill with Haverhill, managed to slip into a first place deadlock (9-4) with Lynn Classical. . . the pair were to settle this argument today.

Top Teams Clash In Two Feature

Billings Field will be the Mecca for thousands of followers of the two brand tonight, where the two leaders of the after-supper circuit's divisions, West Roxbury and Linehan clubs, get together in the top attraction of seven battles booked. Runner-up to Navy Yard for the flag in '45, Linehan seemed headed in the same direction since the start of the current race, and was undefeated until last Friday when the Bensons went down before the 13-hit barrage of a revitalized Glynn Club.

Benson shook up the outfit after Friday's debacle and tonight he will depend on burly Tony Setino, a baseball rarity, a first-class chucker who can also consistently hit, to silence the bats of the classy entry from the swank suburb, operated by Pat Blake as field manager, and the crafty old George Walker in the man-behind-the-scenes role.

Ek-Brave Joe Callahan will be named by Blake for the starting assignment, and if the Linehan long-ball hitters, used to the spacious Stadium, latch on to the fast one, Tommy Pierce, former hurler for Jimmy Hegan's Coast Guards during the war, will be in reserve.

Linehan-conquering Glynn Club triumphantly returns to Eustis Park tonight for the 12th annual Artesani Club, and the latter outfit, having lost some one-run heartbreakers in the last few weeks, is girded for a drive back to the spot behind West Roxbury in the East division.

The McDonough Club is now the Hal Crosby club, named for the veteran Back Bay pilot, and Hal stated that the change of name is the only one of the many changes he has effected to drive his club to the top of the West division, a spot allocated in its pre-season prognostications.

Rosindale fans who cannot secure that coveted bread, will at least see the boys who make it, if that's a consolation, when the Quality Bakers appear at Fall in Field for their first appearance against the Rosindale Royals, in another featured attraction.

Longwood Bills Tennis for Pros

By JACK CONWAY JR.

The flourish and color of major tennis festivals returns to New England June 26 when the New England Professional Tennis tournament will be held at the Longwood Cricket Club.

The last tens of any national importance held at Longwood were the National Doubles of 1941. This approaching tournament will act as a magnet for some of the greatest stars of the grass court world.

The New England tourney will be a money preview to the national professional tennis which are docketed for Forest Hills on the following week.

Tournament manager, Bill Tilden, for years the master of the international courts is strong in his statement that "the forthcoming matches at Longwood will present the finest tennis wizardry seen anywhere since prewar days."

"The resumption of the Don Budge-Bobby Riggs rivalry," continued Tilden, "will highlight the five days of competition. Budge, past amateur singles as well as professional champion, succumbed to Riggs at the Boston Garden early this spring."

"The field, which will number well over 20 participants, is still open to all local professionals," asserted committee chairman, Ralph Osborne.

In addition to the swirling racquets of Tilden, Budge and Riggs, other top stars will be on hand. Among others there are: Welby Van Horn, past national professional king; Frankie Kovacs, clown prince of all tennis; and national stars such as Fred Perry, Vincent Richards, Dick Sken, Lester Stofen, Wayne Sabin, John Faucet, Bruce Barnes and Carl Earl.

Hearst Junior Golf Rules are Outlined

By BILL GRIMES

On Monday morning, August 19, there'll be thirty-two boys from thirteen districts of this country at the Oakland Hills Country Club, which is located in a suburb of Detroit, playing in the first round of the Hearst National Junior championship.

Just as soon as the schools suspend operations for the summer, the Hearst Publications, from Coast to Coast and from Milwaukee to San Antonio will hold sectional championships. Ten of the districts will have two representatives at Oakland Hills, the other three, New England, Chicago and Detroit, will have four, the semifinalists along with the champions and the runners up.

The New England juniors will qualify on one of four courses. The sixty-four qualifiers will go into match play at the Woodland Golf Club on Monday August 12, playing the two 18-hole rounds daily through Wednesday, August 14.

Although the dates of the qualifying rounds have been set for July 8, 15, 22 and 29, the sites will not be announced until next week.

So, attention, New England junior golfers!

If you have NOT reached your 21st birthday and you have NOT caddied for hire, since your 18th birthday, you are eligible to play in the Hearst New England Junior championship. You do NOT have to be a member of a golf or country club to enter the "Hearst."

Starting tomorrow, entry blanks for the Hearst New England Junior championship will be published daily in the American Record and on Sundays in the Advertiser. Juniors, who are eligible to play in the "Hearst" should fill out blanks and mail them to the "Hearst Golf Editor," 5 Winthrop Sq., Boston.

In due time, the American will publish the pairings and starting times for the four qualifying rounds. So watch the Hearst papers for further information concerning the New England Junior championship.

With a trip to Detroit, and all expenses paid by the Hearst Publications for the four youngsters

York Hits 3-Run Homer in Sox 4th

By HUCK FINNEGAN

FENWAY PARK, June 10—Continuing to pack them in unprecedented fashion, the Red Sox drew a crowd of 20,000 to today's single game with the Cleveland Indians.

The sixth-place Indians came here after splitting a four-game series with the Yankees.

"We could have swept the series if it weren't for the umpiring," they maintained. Boston's Alf Parks, Rue and Passarella, aided by Grieve, operated the Indians-Yankees series.

Lou Boudreau used Steve Gromek (3-5) in today's game. "I'll pitch Red Embree tomorrow and Bob Feller here Wednesday," he added.

Long Bill Butland got his second starting opportunity for the Red Sox. Lack of control forced the war veteran to vacate the premises early in his first start against the Browns. The Sox were looking for their 11th straight victory behind Butland. They have dropped only one game (to the Yanks) in their 13-game home stand.

Early comers were entertained by the long distance clouting of Ted Williams, who gave the bleacher fans plenty of chance to retrieve baseballs.

Dave Ferriss was hit in the knee during batting practice but after ice pack treatment was pronounced okay.

Tex Hughson warmed up early, said his injured wrist was responding well but Joe Cronin will not use him until the Sox reach the West.
